THE SITUATION IMPROVING.

A Subsidence of Excitement, Calmer Feeling and Less Apprehension of General Disaster.

CONSERVATISM AT WORK.

The Banks Firm-Foreign Markets Quiet and American Securities Steady.

WALL STREET, Sept. 24-6 P. M. The events of to-day call but for brie, comment. The panic is subsiding and a more hopeful teeling prevails in all circles. The effect of the recent failures announced has been innocuous, inasmuch as they have added nothing to the strength of the panic, and the most aggravated rumors have been unable to excite the street. Conservatism has begun to resume sway, and thorough business men are making arrangements for the resumption of their official labors at the earliest possible moment. Confidence in the situ-ation is asserting supremacy, and the market closed upon a better feeling than has been exhibited during the crists. THE BANKS remain firm, and up to the present writing there are no symptoms that they will yield. Indeed, their own mutual determination has created for them a strength that is calculated to repel all assault. Throughout the crisis they have exhibited a power that fairly demonstrates an ability to withstand the worst financial exigencies, for there has not been an episode in their history so startling as this, or a contingency which has so much appealed to their power. From the beginning the banks have afforded relief. This, however, could not last always, hence they were obliged to fall back upon the government and upon such arrangements as might be made through the Clearing House. Government agreed to purchase United States bonds. The Clearing House issued certificates of deposit to the amount of $20,000,000, and between the two of New York have been enabled to transact their vast mercantile business without material damage to either the purely commercial or purely specula-tive interests with which they are identified. Consequently the banks have lost nothing of public confidence. They still stand as our breakwaters against every and all chances of panic.

It is a fair deduction from the condition of affairs reported to-day that these chances are exhausted. and we may therefore regard the crisis as under absolute control.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE. Within the last twenty-four hours the sentiment of the street has become more thoroughly unani-mous than before with reference to the advisability of keeping closed the doors of the Stock Exchange. At arst this action on the part of the officials was unpopular. It is now recognized as one of the of the corrective and remedial measures that could have been employed in a great tumult like that through ve have been passing. Its close has aided in the cure of a monster evil. Its opening, unless most judiciously managed, will produce a monster disaster. Fortunately the good sense of the operators in the street has yielded to the gravity of the situation, and they have been forced o succumb to a combination of influences which in themselves, left alone, are calculated to evolve order from chaos. In other words, settlements are going on; a deadlock has been broken, and the street is in a fair way to recover its BUSINESS EQUILIBRIUM. There has been a very decided disposition on the part of brokers to effect settlements on a fair basis, and, if this spirit of compromise continues, the Stock Exchange when it opens will have little to do in deciding questions of default that may have occurred among its members, It is a nice thought, and one that has been warmly discussed during the day, whether the Exchange should be opened during the week. One party Another, with much force, urges that the Board should be opened, not for business, but simply for a discussion of the situation. The latter course would be eminently wise, provided the younger members of the body can so far yield their BOISTEROUS IMPULSES to the import of the occasion as to listen with dignified silence to the grave thoughts that would be uttered by their seniors. Such a meeting, properly conducted, would doubtless tend greatly to allay the general distrust, because men most identified with the causes of this crisis would be apt to so express themselves as to convey a feeling of confidence in the situation and show the exact relationship between the speculative, the bank interest and the public.

The connection between these three interests is extremety delicate. The speculations of Wall street have affected the banks. The stringency of the banks has been strongly exhibited in commercial circles, and from the latter there has been a widespread radiation that has the heart of the entire community. The removal of the cause would seem to be afcorrection of the entire evil. At any rate, even to-day we begin to realize some of the recuperative influences, and if the present quiet continues and the panic remains circumscribed it is a reasonable presumption that we shall soon witness a condition of affairs wholly within control of our banks and brokers, a cessation of all pending excitement and a natural revolution of the

THE INTENTION OF THE BANK PRESIDENTS was manifested to-day at their meeting, when it was resolved that, in addition to the issuing of ten millions more of loan certificates, they should stand by each other, "any member sailing to do so to be expelled." Each member was also appointed a committee to ascertain where any portion of ten millions of government bonus could be purchased and sold to the Treasury, with the understanding that any oss accruing therefrom should be sustained by the banks, according to their deposits in the Clearing House. It was also requested by the meeting that the President and Secretary of the Treasury should anticipate the payment of government bonds due on the 1st of January, 1874.

ANOTHER AGREEABLE PRATURE of the day, as showing the returning confidence of the people at large, was the presence of a very considerable amount of capital represented on the street both by individuals and by brokers seeking investment in the various securities now apparently at their minimum. Purchases for cash were largely made of small lots of 10, 20, 50 and 100 shares of different stocks, the aggregate of which must have very considerably relieved those who have been burdened by these securities and felt the want of cash. If the Stock Exchange should remain closed it is not at all improbable that hundreds of out-oftown buyers will come here with their little hoards and invest the same in the low priced shares which now offer such admirable opportunities for profit. The following are the closing prices of

The trade movement was more than ever interrupted to-day, the many ridiculous rumors from Wall street causing renewed apprehensions and rendering commercial transactions well nigh impossible. Rumors the most groundless exerted for a time an influence as potent as actual disaster could have done, and these flew thick and fast, and proved an effectual preventive of nearly all legitimate trade enterprises. The export movement was at a stand, owing to the utter futility of all effort at negotiating foreign exchange. On 'Change scarcely anything was done, and the doors might almost as well been closed for all that resulted from the congregating of merchants." Flour was dull and nominal. Wheat was dull and decidedly lower, but the concession did not induce purchases to any extent, owing to the impossibility of selling ex-change. Corn was dull and lower. Oats were quiet. Whiskey was easy. Provisions were dull and nominal so far as large lots were concerned. Lard was easier. Groceries were quiet and easy. The Wall Street Flurry Not Affecting Speculation in Property-Sales Yester-

Notwithstanding the stagnation in Wall street and the uncertainty as to the future, the attendance at the Exchange Salesroom yesterday was fair, and the property put up brought good prices, all things considered. The heaviest sale was that of Bleecker, Son & Co., by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure. The partition of the four story brown stone h stone house, located on the west side of Madison avenue, north of Seventy-third street, and the four story brown stone house situated on the southwest corner of Seventy-fourth street and Madison avenue, advertised to take place yesterday, were withdrawn, the former upon a bid of $41,000, and the latter $42,000. The following are the particulars:—

THE MONTHLY COAL SALE.

Yesterday, at No. 26 Exchange place, the roo of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad took place the usual monthly coal sale. Ninety thousand tons were offered and disposed of on the usual terms and conditions. The attendance was smaller than usual, and many expressed surprise that in the present condition of the money market the company had offered so much. Yet the prices commanded shows but a small decline over the rates realized in August. On stove coal alone was there an advance, but it was very trifing. On all other brands there was a very small decline, but not sufficient to materially affect the retail market. The following are the amounts sold and the prices realized, as compared with last month's rates:—

MEETING OF THE PARK COMMISSIONERS. A special meeting of the Park Commissioners was held yesterday in the office of the Department, Union square. The President of the Board, Mr. Williamson, was in the chair. The meeting was called for the purpose of receiving the property owners of the town of Kingsbridge, and submitting to them the maps and plans proposed for the laying out of the streets and avenues to be opened in

A numerous body of property holders attended the call of the Board. Ceneral Ewen presented to the commissioners a map with a somewhat different plan of laving out the town from that before thought of. His plan, with certain modifications, seemed to meet the views of the property holders, who are, of course, deeply interested in the present scheme of improvement. After the deputation retard, the Board adopted the map of the continuation of "P" street, connecting Inwood with Bolton road, and directed the necessary maps for filing to be prepared.

The Superintendent was directed to continue the excavations for the Central Park wall, on 110th street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The specifications for this wall were ordered to be prepared.

Permission was granted to the Mutual Gas Company to lay main and service pipes in the City Hall Park, Bowling Green, and the Battery.

Bills to the amount in the aggregate of $10,516 30 were audited.

After these proceedings the Board adjourned, to meet again to-day at half-past seven o'clock P. M. A numerous body of property holders attended

THE MAYOR AND THE VITRIOLIC ACID THROWERS

Yesterday Mayor Havemeyer issued his proclama-tion offering a reward of $1,000 for arrest and conviction of the party or parties who some time in August threw vitriolic acid in the eyes of Walter Gibson, editor of the Harlem Local. THE LION AND THE LAMB, &C.

As an evidence of the near approach of that time of which George Linnæus Banks says:-"When man to man united The whole world shall be lighted," &c., it may be stated that Mayor Havemeyer and senator O'Brien were closeted in the office of the former yesterday for over an hour. When the rival candidates for Mayor thus meet in friendly communion, politicians may well inquire, "What's in the wind?"

SHIPWRECK AND SUFFERING.

Loss of the Brigantine Hound, from Halifax for Porto Rico.

The Crew Collected on the Top of the Deck House During Fifteen Days-Hunger and Death-The Blood and Liver of a Shark Used as Food-Aid in an Extreme Moment.

(From the Bermudian, Sept. 17.) Yesterday morning Captain Carroll, of the British brigantine Hound, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, with his officers and a portion of his crew, was landed from the brigantine Harp, the former vessel having been dismantled and waterlogged during the late

DOLBERY TALE OF SUPPERING AND DEATH. Captain Carroll reports that the Hound left Hallfax on the 7th of August, for St. John's, Porto Rico, with a general cargo and a deckload of lumber. Nothing of moment occurred during the voyage until the 19th inst., when a dreadful hurricane was experienced in latitude 14 deg., longitude 63 deg. 33 min. During the burricane on that day the ship was thrown on her beam ends by a heavy sea, which swept away the deckload, water casks, galley, &c. ; burst up the hatches-in fact, cleared the ley, &c.; burst up the hatches—in tact, cleared the deck, and it was necessary to cut away the spars to insure the safety of the vessel and crew. When she righted she was found to be waterlogged.

The steward, who was in the cabin when the vessel was thrown down, was drowned by the water rushing in before he could escape.

The vessel was under wa er to ner rail, and all hands were compelled to remain on the bouse, being deprived or all the necessaries of life and having nothing to eat but saft pork. On the 2d of September one of the seamen died of exhaustion. They had then been on the wreck fifteen days.

On the 5th inst, the brigantine Harp bore down on them and had then been on the wreck fifteen days.

On the 5th inst, the brigantine Harp bore down on them and
RESCUED THE SURVIVORS,
the master, first and second mates and three seamen, from their dreadun situation.
On the 8th inst, the cuief officer, Mr. Connolly, died from the effects of exposure and privation.
Fred the sime of the disaster to the time they were rescued by the flarp, those unfortunite mariners had been on the top of the vessel's house seventeen days, and during that time had experienced every suffering short of death. The provision on which they were compelled to subsist only served to agravate their sufferings, and taey were driven to the most desperate resources to satisfy their burning thirst. During the time a shark was caught and its blood was eagerly drunk, and its heart, &c., divided equally, and ravenously devoured. This is but a single incident—and had not the Harp rescued them when sae did they must all have died a horrible death.
Yesterday morning Captain Carroll, his second mate and three seamen, in a very weak and wretched condition, were landed here and taken in charge by the representatives of the Board of Trade.

POISONED BY INDIAN MEAL.

A family named Eaton, consisting of father, nother and three children, residing at No. 155 Grand street, Williamsburgh, awoke yesterday morning suffering severely from the evident effects morning suffering severely from the evident effects of poison. A physician was promptly summoned, who administered antidotes and attended them until they exhibited signs of convalescence. The lamily attribute their poisoning to an Indian meal supper of which they had partaken, and which they had purchased at a neighboring grocery store. They are inclined to the opinion that the meal was poisoned by lead in the grinding. Last evening all the family were doing well, except Mrs. Eaton, who was still suffering. Mr. Eaton partock sparingly of the food and was only slightly affected.
